A magnificently restored Victorian mansion, Gem Strathmore Hotel is the former London residence of the Earl of Strathmore. The elegantly composed Library suite and The Study suite is capable of accommodating an impressive array of formal and corporate.

A grand chandeliered dining facility is also available for use and ideal for formal dinners and major functions. Opulent guestrooms are distinctively furnished with fine fabrics, hand-carved wood, and equipped with a comprehensive range of modern amenities and conveniences.

Fashionably situated between Gloucester Road and South Kensington underground stations, Gem Strathmore provides an easily accessible conference and event venue, where patrons are assured of a truly regal experience.
